LIVE SURGERY

with Enrico Robotti

Rhinoseptoplasty requires dedication and a long learning curve. Major recent changes in techniques have made this operation more complex, more lengthy, but undoubtedly with significantly improved results.

Even the best rhinoplasty courses worldwide have the drawback of a large faculty with different point of views to be expressed in a limited time. This may lead attendees to some confusion and a desire for further guided learning.

This course will allow a maximum of 35 attendees to spend 3 full days in live HD connection with the operating room, as well as be exposed to lectures and videos on the many issues and current refinements that matter most in primary and revision rhinoplasty. The last day will be a brainstorming session devoted to review, video-focuses and case presentations brought both to and by attendees.

I will share my favorite techniques, in all their details and nuances on 6 open rhinoplasties, 4 primaries and 2 secondaries. The former will show different deformities on males and females, while the latter will involve rib reconstruction.

All cases will be analysed preop and discussed postop. I will also give key lectures on the current principles of reshaping tip and dorsum both in primary and secondary open rhinoplasty.

It is my belief that this course will allow, due to its format and the limited number of attendees, a special and unique learning experience.
